REMOVAL.

The Office and Job Printing establishment of the Newport Daily News and WEEKLY JOURNAL has recently been removed from 121, to 123 Thames st. The undersigned hopes to see his friends and to receive a continuance of the patronage already bestowed upon him.

GEORGE T. HAMMOND,

Editor and Proprietor.

The Bank Question.

The following letter from a correspondent, presents the strongest point of view on the side of those who support the Suffolk Bank in its stand on the country Banks of New England. We present it with a word of remark on the position we have taken in the matter.

To THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY NEWS:

DEAR SIR.—Your article of this (Thursday) morning, reflecting on my stand on the conduct of the Merchants' Bank of Providence in presenting the bills of New York Banks for redemption. These bills, issued by the various banks, are on their face, a promise to pay to whomsoever presents such a bill, the amount thereof at sight, and the presentation of the bill to the bank, only what the bank itself does to every tradesman whose note becomes due. If the Merchants' Bank of Providence, the Suffolk Bank of Boston, or any other institution, has on hand a quantity of such bills, they have a perfect right in demand of the Bank issuing them, the specific, at any time which suits their convenience, and to deem such an act contemptible and malicious, is as unreasonable as if a tradesman should use such language to the bank which demands payment of his note at maturity.

Yours respectfully,

SUFFOLK.

"Suffolk" is perfectly right in his statement, so far as it goes; but there is another element in the case, which he leaves entirely out of the question. When a tradesman doing a large business, has occasion to use discounts of bank, he relies confidently on a continuation of that accommodation so long as his credit and character warrant it, and does this with good reason. The richest mercantile houses in the country probably could not meet all their outstanding obligations with cash if forced to rely entirely on their own available means at the moment when their notes become due, without a continuance of what is termed in common parlance (and very justly) their business facilities. This is a necessary consequence of the credit system in which all the business of the country is conducted.

So with the banks. The profit of their business depends in a great measure on the amount of their circulation, which the community are willing to use in their daily transactions without demanding the specific for it, and they fulfill their duty so long as they redeem this as fast as it comes in, in the regular course of trade. If they also take care to fortify themselves against such a concerted demand as was lately made here, they set for their own interest in the long run, but at a temporary loss of profits to themselves, like the merchant who keeps idle a larger portion of his capital than his business needs. They have, however, good reason to complain, when another institution, precisely like themselves, collects their bills with an intention of obstructing the natural flow of circulation and driving them home in large masses for redemption. It is much as if one tradesman should buy up all a rival's paper, for the sake of preventing any renewal and forcing him into a ruinous suspension of payment, when his ultimate means are ample.

We believe the New England system of redemption to have been a good one; but it was a purely voluntary arrangement made by the banks, of which the Suffolk Bank was only the agent. If that agent charged too much for its services, the other banks had certainly a right to dismiss it and make better terms elsewhere; and we cannot but consider the attempt to compel the country banks to continue it, a piece of great injustice as well as a most suicidal course on the part of the bank—itself existing like the others entirely on public confidence—which attempts it.

That Newport, where a sum of this kind would attract more attention from the capitalists residing and visiting here, than in any other New England town of its size, should be selected for the object of attack, is a significant indication of the animus of the move.

SATURDAY NIGHT.—What blessed things they are and what would the printer do without them. They are his resting moments when he drops the burden which has rested Atlas like upon his shoulders for the week, and breathes free again. Homeward, ho! for business is over, and he can now set up with his wife instead of setting up type and cultivate a warmer acquaintance with his little ones and neighbors. His heart now beats softly, just as it used to do years ago, before the world, converted it into metal. Instead of reading manuscript he can read a thousand kindly things in the light of his wife's eyes, and thank God that he is not a bachelor.

The above we copy from the New Bedford Mercury, which being a morning as well as an evening paper, of course speaks "by the card." The premises hold good, however, only in relation to the printers of daily and more especially morning papers. Other printers are generally privileged to go and come like people of other occupations, having their evenings to themselves. We have often felt the force of the above remarks of our contemporary in our own experience.

The Colonial Records of Newport.

CHAPTER II.

Document by Mr. Coddington—Formation of the Settlement—Election of a Judge—Election of a Clerk—Laws for the Regulation of the Colony and location of the Settlement—Allotment of Land—Arming the Settlement.

Fourteen years subsequent to the events recorded in the preceding chapter, circumstances had arisen which called forth from Mr. Coddington, then removed to Boston, the following document, which must explain itself:

Boston in Massachusetts Bay in New England. Whereas there was an agreement of eighteen persons to make purchase of some place in the southward for a plantation, where they received license; for which end, some of them were sent out to view a place for themselves, and such others as they should take to the liberties of freemen and purchasers with them. And upon their view was purchased Rhode Island, with some small neighboring Islands in the Bay, and marine inheritance. And whereas the sale of the said purchase from the Indians hath ever since layne in the hands of William Coddington, Esq., which being a great trouble to the aforesaid purchasers and freemen, I, the said William Coddington, Esq., do by this writing promise to deliver the said deus of the purchase, together with what regardeth in my hands belonging to the said purchasers and free-men into the hands of such as the major part of the purchasers and freemen shall appoint to receive them, and do hereby declare, that I, the said William Coddington, Esq., have no more in the purchase of right, than any other of the purchasers or freemen received, or shall receive in by them, but only for my owne proportion. In witness whereof, I have put my hand, this 1st April, 1652.

WM. CODDINGTON.

Signed in the presence of RONNIE KNIGHT, GEORGE MUNING.

A true copy of the original, entered and recorded the 7th of April, 1673.

per me, JOHN SANFORD, Recorder.

William Coddington, Esq., aged about seventy-six years, testifieth upon his engagement, that when he was one of the magistrates of the Massachusetts Colony, he was one of the persons that made a peace with Cononcious and Miantonomi in the Collonel's behalf of all the Narragansett Indians, and by order from the authority of the Massachusetts, a little before they made war with the Pequod Indians. Not long after this, defendant went from Boston to find a plantation to settle upon and came to Aquidneck, now called Rhode Island, where was a sachem, called Wominacononet; and this defendant went to buy the Island of him, but his answer was that Cononcious and Miantonomi were the chief sachems, and he could not sell the land; whereupon this defendant, with some others went from Aquidneck Island into Narragansett, to the said sachems, Cononcious and Miantonomi, and bought the Island of them; they having, as I understand the chief command, both of the Narragansett and Aquidneck Island; and further will not.

Taken upon engagement in Newport, on Rhode Island, the 27th day of September, 1673. Deponent, P. Sanford, Assistant.

The above is a true copy of the original placed on record. Examined by me, FELIXWELL Clarke, Recorder.

Oct. 11th, 1706.

WM. CODDINGTON.

In March, 1638, about one year after the transfer of the Island to Cononcious and Miantonomi, the necessity of organizing themselves into a body politic, seems to have occurred to the settlers; and with that reliance upon Jehovah which characterized all the movements of our forefathers, they entered into the following compact:

We, whose names are underwritten, do here solemnly, in the presence of Jehovah, incorporate ourselves into a Bodie Politick, and as he shall help, will submit our persons, lives and estates unto our Lord Jesus Christ, the King of Kings and Lord of Lords, and to all those perfect and most absolute laws of his, given us in his holy word of truth, to be guided and judged thereby.

Thus the town of Portsmouth "set up for itself," though it does not appear that the name was adopted till some time subsequently, the whole Island going by its original name of Aquidneck, forming of itself an independent "provinc." Immediately after forming the above compact, the "Freemen Incorporate" proceeded to the choice of a person to sit in judgement, on the affairs of the Colony, as follows:

"The 5th of the first month, 1638.

We, whose names are underwritten, do here solemnly, in the presence of Jehovah, incorporate ourselves into a Bodie Politick,

HAMMONTON LANDS,
NEW ENGLAND SETTLEMENT.
RARE OPPORTUNITY.—TO ALL WANTING FARMS—in a healthy place, twenty-five miles from Philadelphia, on the Camden and Atlantic railroad, New Jersey.
An old estate has recently been opened for sale, and the first division of 10,000 acres divided up into farms of twenty acres and upwards. The soil is of the best quality for the production of fruits, grapes, &c. The price is $15 to $20 per acre, payable in easy quarterly installments, within a term of four years, with interest. The terms are made easy, in order to insure the rapid improvement of the land, by enabling every industrious man to buy a farm. It is now being extensively improved by good roads, and some of the best citizens from New England and the Middle States are erecting large improvements.
It is a scene of the greatest improvement of Philadelphia. Seventy-five houses have been built in four months. Practical farmers and business men from the length and breadth of the Union are settling there. It is an important business place, on account of its situation in the midst of a great market. Every article raised upon this land finds an immediate market. The water is excellent, and no such thing as fever is known.

The soil is a sandy or clay loam, with a few bottoms and redets of manures. It is free of stones and easily worked. It abounds largely in the phosphates, and such is its fertility that from the crop produced both upon this land and the large area adjoining under cultivation, it will be found not to be exceeded anywhere in the production of crops most adapted to its market.

The reader may be well aware that the carbon and the best fruits and vegetables come from New Jersey, which are annually exported to the amount of millions of dollars. The land, besides being accessible in every way for fertilizers, has an abundant supply of the best quality of muck manure.

Lumber and building materials can be had on the spot at a cheap price, from the mills.
Other mills are now being opened, and brickyards being started on the ground. A person can put up a fine tenement for prevent conveniences for one hundred dollars. On account of the extensive emigration, this is the best course to pursue in order to get a place to live in at the first. Carpenters and builders are on hand to put up houses on the best terms.

In settling here the emigrant has many advantages. He is within a few hours' ride of the great cities in the Middle States and New England; he is near his old friends and associates; he is in a settled country, where extreme improvement and comfort of civilization is at hand; he is in a healthy place, and is not subject to the certainty of losing the greater part of his family and his own health by those malignant fevers which make the graves of so many millions of the young and hardy in far off regions away from home and friends. Besides, he has a mild climate and an open winter.

There are three trains daily to Philadelphia, and to all those who improve the railroad company gives a free ticket.

The reader will be at once struck with the advantages here presented, and ask himself why the property has not been taken up before.
The reason is, it was never thrown in the market; and unless these statements were correct no one would be invited to examine the land before purchasing. This all are expected to do. They will see the land under cultivation; they will meet persons, no doubt, from their own neighborhood; they will witness the improvements, and can judge of the character of the population. Persons should come prepared to purchase, as many are locating, and locations are not held on refusal.

The Hammon Farmer, a monthly Literary and Agricultural sheet, containing full information of Hammonton, will be sent to each purchaser, and can be obtained at 25 cts per annum.

This indispensable Warrantee deeds given, clear of all incumbrance, when purchase money is paid. Route to the land: Levee Vine street wharf, Philadelphia, for Hammonton by rail road at 7 A. M., and 5 P. M.; when there inquire for Mr. Byrnes. Boarding conveniences will be found. Letters and applications can be addressed to S. B. COUGHLIN, 302 South FIFTH Street, below Walnut, Philadelphia. Maps and information cheerfully supplied.
